We live in Northampton, Massachusetts, right in the middle of the state. David is a musician who teaches the drumming of South India at Wesleyan University, in Middletown, Connecticut, about an hour south of Northampton. If you want to know how a nice half-Swedish boy from Minneapolis ended up doing something so odd, you can find out more than you’d ever want to know at dpnelson.web.wesleyan.edu. David plays concerts all over the place, including, it turns out, North Carolina. Here’s a picture the morning after with Arlene and Aunt LaVerne, who drove a really long time to get there...

Kim is a wonderful cook and terrific gardener, as you can see below:

Besides Buford (our only-begotten coonhound), music and gardening, we love Cape Cod, biking, baseball (Boston Red Sox!), and good food and wine. We’re sorry to miss you all. Come and visit us!
